DIRECTOR

Congratulations to those of you who are now alumni of the 1995 Arkansas Governor's School. Each of you will remember the Governor saying, "Dream on" and seeing Westside Story among many other things about this year's program. Hopefully, you have been one of those not just privileged to be selected but who has made the most of all the academic, cultural, as well as social opportunities afforded you by the taxpayers of Arkansas. As an alumna, you will automatically become an authoritative spokesperson for the program, including both its successes and its failures. Please take that responsibility seriously and remember to thank the taxpayers, legislators, Arkansas Department of Education personnel, your school administrators, and your teachers for helping you get here and for providing you the opportunity to participate in one of the most innovative experiments in comprehensive summer residential liberal arts programs for high school students in the nation.

Speakers, films, and even cultural events were meant to stimulate each of us to hone our own thinking. You have had the opportunity to learn more about the nature of knowledge and about some of the intellectual, artistic, and social issues important to our lives. You were expected to analyze the informational content, the assumptions made, as well as the implications of whatever was discussed and not to be satisfied with simplistic, entertaining, jingoistic sound bites. The success and value of the AGS program will be measured not only by how much you have learned about your particular area of focus in the arts or sciences, but also by how much you have learned about yourself and about achieving your full potential, and even by the degree to which you have increased your personal aspirations. By design, much of the learning occurred outside of the classroom. After all, learning is something far too important to confine to a few hours in our youth in structured classrooms. You are encouraged to take responsibility for continuing your learning and service to community long after AGS is over. Learning requires motivation and effort, but it is certainly worthwhile for each of those involved, and it is critical to everyone's quality of life. We have endeavored to make the 1995 AGS as conducive as possible to your intellectual and artistic development.

May all your highest aspirations be achieved!

Sincerely,

AREA I

Area I embraces instruction in the performing arts of choral music, drama, instrumental music, and visual arts and course work in the academic disciplines of English/language arts, mathematics, natural science, and social science. Emphasis in Area I is placed on participatory learning experiences that prepare students to enter and understand the critical systems that undergird the various fields of study. To this end, the students examine new, challenging and often controversial theories, techniques, and works---all designed to encourage them to develop a critical stance based on careful scrutiny of ideas and developments within their area of interest. FACULTY

Area II encourages critical thinking and conceptual development in exploring the foundations of knowledge. Discussions, which often cut across disciplinary lines, tend to center around epistemological and normative issues raised by 20th century theorists. The goal of these discussions is not so much to reach agreement as it is to progress to deeper levels of intellectual reflections.

*Russ Gardner, Bill Myers, Jane Harris, Keith Sutton
John Walchak, Gene Eller, Conrad Shumaker, Scott Calef*

Area III is designed to foster the development of personal resources needed to meet the challenges the students confront as their knowledge expands and they encounter alternative worldviews. As part of an over-all integrated curriculum of AGS, Area III attempts to create an environment of trust, confidentiality, and experience. The goal is to provide students with insight into the nature of their abilities, the advantages these capabilities might provide, and the anxieties these aptitudes might generate, as well as make them aware of the societal responsibilities they have toward various communities to which they belong. In this way, students may be able to optimize their use of those abilities.
