From the Director

On behalf of the faculty and staff, I want to express how privileged we feel to have been able to spend this summer thinking and learning with you. We have all been enriched and enlarged by the diversity of people and ideas we've encountered in this, the twenty-fourth summer of the Arkansas Governor's School. At the same time, the main themes of the summer seem to be simple and few: you are not only the future, you are the present. In the present you can make unique contributions to your community and to the world. To make those contributions you will need to recognize and develop your gifts and talents—you will need to learn about yourself. You will also need to learn about the world—about the immensely intricate and delicate natural and social relationships that join everything and everyone.

Chris Campolo, Director of AGS

The citizens of this state support the Arkansas Governor's School partly as a way to honor and reward you for your achievements. More importantly, they want to provide you with the opportunity to explore yourself and your world, to reflect on the ways that you can use your gifts to preserve what is good and to make a difference where change is needed. If you valued the experience, let it show in the way you live from now on. Don't forget to thank your fellow Arkansans for making it possible.

For our part, we congratulate you on the achievements that brought you here, and we applaud the courage you have shown in joining us this summer. We are proud of you for making new friends, thinking hard, listening well, creating sincerely, and looking forward hopefully.

Whatever your path, we wish you great happiness and success. We look forward to hearing great things.

Chris Campolo,
Director

Area I

Academia & the Arts

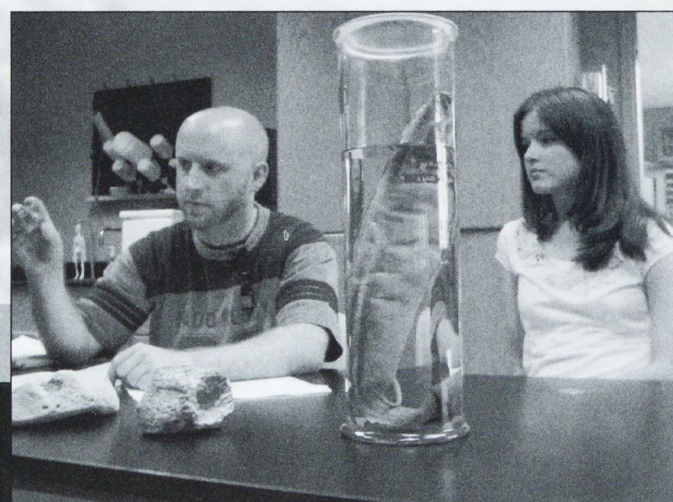

Area I embraces instruction in the performing arts of choral music, drama, instrumental music and visual arts, and course work in the academic disciplines of English/language arts, natural science, mathematics, and social science.

Emphasis in Area I is placed on participatory learning experiences which prepare students to enter and understand the critical systems that undergird their various fields of study. To this end, students examine new, challenging, and often controversial theories, techniques, and works--all designed to challenge them to develop a critical stance based on careful scrutiny of ideas and developments within their areas of interest.

Don Baker is the Area I Coordinator for academic disciplines, and Ray Wheeler is the Area I coordinator for performing arts.

Area II

General Conceptual Development

The Area II curriculum is designed to enhance conceptual development. Students are encouraged to learn more about how knowledge is acquired (epistemology), and to understand the various ways of knowing in different disciplines. In striving to increase their ability to analyze diverse perspectives on current normative issues, students gain a new appreciation for their implications. Classroom discussion then leads students to progress toward deeper levels of intellectual reflection, which enhances their ability to become better thinkers.

Mark Elrod is the Area II Coordinator.

Area III

Personal & Social Development

Area III is designed to foster the personal and social development necessary for the students to benefit fully from their Area I and Area II classes and the comprehensive cultural and social events of the AGS program. The Area III curriculum provides an opportunity for the students to see the importance of taking personal responsibility for one's own ideas and for one's participation in a democratic society. Area III provides students a forum for actively exploring civic responsibility; it seeks to inspire a student's understanding of his or her own personal potential and to impress upon the student the value of character, leadership, integrity, insight, and compassion, not only within their own communities, but also in society at large. Within this framework students explore curricular issues such as theories of intelligence, conflict and stress management, psychological and personality theory, goal setting, and community service.
