BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN MEDICAL LABORATORY SCIENCE

Arkansas Tech University, in affiliation with approved schools of medical technology, offers a four-year program leading to the bachelor of science degree and to certification as a medical laboratory scientist. The affiliated schools of medical laboratory science are accredited by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

The first three years of the curriculum are taught on the Tech campus and the fourth (professional) year is taught at one of the affiliated schools of medical technology. Admission to the professional year is on a competitive basis, and students must meet the admission standards of the medical laboratory science school.

Personnel with Medical Technology Affiliated Institutions

Baptist Health College, Little Rock, Arkansas: Jennie Manees, M.P.H., MT (ASCP), Program Director, School of Medical Laboratory Science.

Mercy Hospital School of Medical Laboratory Science, Joplin, Missouri. Southeast Health College of Nursing and Health Sciences, Cape Girardeau, Missouri: Lea White, B.B., M.T. (ASCP), M.L.S. Clinical Coordinator. Karen Adkins, MA ED, MT (ASCP), Program Director, School of Medical Laboratory Science.

To qualify for the bachelor of science degree, the student must satisfactorily complete at least 82 credit-hours specified in the curriculum below and be accepted by one of our affiliated schools of medical laboratory science, listed above, for the senior year. During their senior (professional) year of residency (52 weeks of class) at one of the affiliated schools of medical laboratory science, successful candidates will complete 38 to 40 credit hours for a total of at least 120 credit hours. This experience is an all or nothing situation where the student must satisfactorily complete the entire program to bring any of the credit toward this degree.

Tuition and fees for courses taken the senior year at one of the affiliated medical laboratory science schools will be assessed at the current rate charged by the affiliated school and are payable to Arkansas Tech University. Financial aid and scholarship arrangements are also made by Tech; however, students are also encouraged to contact the affiliated medical laboratory science schools for possible additional opportunities.

Upon successful completion of the final year at an affiliated medical laboratory science school, a student is eligible for a bachelor of science degree, as well as being eligible to write the National Board Examination for licensure. This examination is given at various times throughout the year by the Board of Registry of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.
