Metal Qualities and Types

Because "24 Karat" of pure gold is a very soft metal, it is "alloyed" (mixed) with other metals for strength:

14 Karat Gold is an alloy of 59% pure gold with a base metal for strength. It provides the highest quality and most durable finish. Also available in white gold.

10 Karat Gold is an alloy of 42% pure gold with a base metal for strength. Also available in white gold.

Double Gold-Filled is a layer of 10 Karat gold bonded to both front and back (where initials and year are engraved) of a reinforcing metal core. Also available in white gold.

Gold-Filled is a layer of 10 Karat gold bonded to the front of a reinforcing metal. Also available in white gold.

Sterling Silver is an alloy of 92.5% pure silver plus 7.5% copper.

Gold Electroplate is a yellow gold electrolytically deposited onto a reinforcing metal. With this process, the thickness of gold is significantly less than gold-filled, and its durability is limited. Also available in white Rhodium Plate.
