I	Student: _	Date:
I understand I must score an average of on the remaining exams to qualify to take the course final exam. I also understand that according to the course calendar, the next test occurs after the first day of the 10 th week. If I decide to remain in the course and do not maintain a passing average on the five unit tests, I will fail the course. If I decide to drop the course after the first day of the 10 th week, I understand this will result in an attempt of the course. According to the student handbook (2009-2010) and progression requirements for the Department of Nursing, I understand that for "3000 and 4000 Level courses, an attempt is "any enrollment in any course and dropping it after the first day of the 10th week of the semester, or after the third week of a summer session, for any reason, and/or failure (grade of "D", "F", or "FE") of the course"(p. 30). I understand I must drop the course before the first day of the 10 th week to not have an attempt on my transcript. I have been counseled that I have the following options: 1. Remain in the current course. A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one mursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing courses", (p. 30). 2. Drop the current course. I also understand if I drop this course, I will automatically be dropped from the corresponding clinical course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of r	achieve a	According to the corresponding course syllabus, st a "passing average (75%) on the four unit exams to pass the course and to p course final exam. I also understand that according to the course calendar, the next test occurs after the first day of the 10th week. If I decide to remain in the course and do not maintain a passing average on the five unit tests, I will fail the course. If I decide to drop the course after the first day of the 10th week, I understand this will result in an attempt of the course. According to the student handbook (2009-2010) and progression requirements for the Department of Nursing, I understand that for "3000 and 4000 Level courses, an attempt is "any enrollment in any course and dropping it after the first day of the 10th week of the semester, or after the third week of a summer session, for any reason, and/or failure (grade of "D", "F", < or "FE") of the course"(p. 30). I understand I must drop the course before the first day of the 10th week to not have an attempt on my transcript. 1. Remain in the current course. A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of readmission.	My curren	ent grades are:
course final exam. I also understand that according to the course calendar, the next test occurs after the first day of the 10th week. If I decide to remain in the course and do not maintain a passing average on the five unit tests, I will fail the course. If I decide to drop the course after the first day of the 10th week, I understand this will result in an attempt of the course. According to the student handbook (2009-2010) and progression requirements for the Department of Nursing, I understand that for "3000 and 4000 Level courses, an attempt is "any enrollment in any course and dropping it after the first day of the 10th week of the semester, or after the third week of a summer session, for any reason, and/or failure (grade of "D", "F", < or "FE") of the course"(p. 30). I understand I must drop the course before the first day of the 10th week to not have an attempt on my transcript. 1. Remain in the current course. A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of readmission.
course final exam. I also understand that according to the course calendar, the next test occurs after the first day of the 10th week. If I decide to remain in the course and do not maintain a passing average on the five unit tests, I will fail the course. If I decide to drop the course after the first day of the 10th week, I understand this will result in an attempt of the course. According to the student handbook (2009-2010) and progression requirements for the Department of Nursing, I understand that for "3000 and 4000 Level courses, an attempt is "any enrollment in any course and dropping it after the first day of the 10th week of the semester, or after the third week of a summer session, for any reason, and/or failure (grade of "D", "F", < or "FE") of the course"(p. 30). I understand I must drop the course before the first day of the 10th week to not have an attempt on my transcript. I have been counseled that I have the following options: 1. Remain in the current course. A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing courses", (p.30). 2. Drop the current course. I also understand If I drop this course, I will automatically be dropped from the corresponding clinical course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of readmission.
 Remain in the current course. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing courses", (p.30). Drop the current course. I also understand if I drop this course, I will automatically be dropped from the corresponding clinical course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of readmission. 	first day of five unit te understand and progre courses, a week of th of "D", "H	nal exam. I also understand that according to the course calendar, the next test occur of the 10 th week. If I decide to remain in the course and do not maintain a passing a tests, I will fail the course. If I decide to drop the course after the first day of the 10 and this will result in an attempt of the course. According to the student handbook (2 pression requirements for the Department of Nursing, I understand that for "3000 are an attempt is "any enrollment in any course and dropping it after the first day of the semester, or after the third week of a summer session, for any reason, and/or "F", < or "FE") of the course" (p. 30). I understand I must drop the course before	ars after the average on the average on the the week, I (2009-2010) and 4000 Level of the 10th failure (grade)
 A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take the final exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this course. The progression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only repeat one nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing course the student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered for any student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or "F*" in two (2) Upper Division nursing courses", (p.30). 2. Drop the current course. I also understand if I drop this course, I will automatically be dropped from the corresponding clinical course. I understand I must have a passing clinical grade in order for the clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing program. I must reapply to the program by the next application deadline for consideration of readmission. 	I have been	een counseled that I have the following options:
Signature	A. B. 2. Dr fro	A. I must maintain a on the remaining tests in order to qualify to take exam. B. If I do not pass the course, I understand that I will have a failure for this couprogression policy states "A student in the Upper Division courses may only nursing course. Following a second failure in any Upper Division nursing a student will be dismissed from the program. Readmission will not be considered student dismissed from the nursing program who obtained a "D", "F", or (2) Upper Division nursing courses", (p.30). Drop the current course. I also understand if I drop this course, I will automatically from the corresponding clinical course. I understand I must have a passing clinical growthe clinical course to NOT count as an attempt for progression in the nursing progression.	urse. The verepeat one course the dered for any "F*" in two be dropped grade in order ogram. I must
AIQUADUE EXCUDY	Signature	Faculty	