

CETL Advisory Committee
WebEx Meeting Minutes
January 31, 2022

Members Present: Robin Lasey, V. Carole Smith, Lisa Harless, Stephen Jones, Matthew Hankins, Randall Colvin, Patrick Hagge, Ellen Treadway

AGENDA & DISCUSSION

1. January 5 Report: Personal Professional Development Day

- More than a third faculty participated, and 60 faculty completed the evaluation survey: On the whole, faculty reported positive reviews of morning and afternoon sessions, understood that the purpose was to make connections across campus, to start the new semester on a positive note and to have fun with colleagues, to learn something new, and to remember what it is like to be a student.

2. Spring CETL Schedule

- We continue to partner with the Wellness Committee.
- Diversity program recordings are available in Bb under Resources in the Diversity folder.
- This semester, CETL continues to partner with Dr. Brooks in the Department of Diversity.
- The library has videos on diversity issues, as well, listed on the CETL website (e.g., LR Nine, women scientists). Dr. Lasey asked for suggestions from the advisory committee.
- Recommended program for April: Creating an antibias/antiracist syllabus. Watch for that announcement.
- Dr. Lasey asked committee members to encourage our colleagues to participate.

3. TECH Talks: Professional Development in May 2022

- Format: Conference-style presentations, four 20-minute sessions with each person presenting twice. 10 minutes between sessions. Sessions are an introduction and overview of a topic that will help others in the classroom.
- Date: The morning of Thursday, May 5. Grades are due on Wednesday at noon.
- Platform: Remote via WebEx
- Dr. Lasey will ask about the possibility of lunch for faculty on May 5.
- The call for abstracts will go out in the next couple of weeks. Committee will forward the announcement with a personal email to encourage faculty to submit.

Respectfully submitted by:
