Working and Giving Together

Each day, you work together with other Arkansas Tech University faculty and staff as partners in the future of the university. You dedicate your time, energy and talent to enrich the academic and personal lives of all who attend Tech. Students come to Tech because they know you are committed to helping them succeed.

Participation

Another way Tech students count on the university’s faculty and staff is through your gifts. Your support, combined with that of alumni, friends, businesses and others, helps to provide scholarships, academic and program enrichment, equipment and supplies and technology.

Your participation is critical to making Tech a stronger institution. It is not the size of your gift, but your participation that matters. Your participation also shows the larger community that Tech’s employees believe in the University.

Did You Know?

- Due to the lack of increases in state funding, the importance of private giving and scholarships is becoming more vital.
- Last fiscal year, 37% of Tech’s faculty and staff participated in the Tech Loyalty Fund, giving more than $50,000.
- Our goal for this year 39% participation.

Designate Your Gift

You may designate your gift to the “University’s Greatest Need” or support one of more than 200 separate areas within the Arkansas Tech Foundation. These include your academic department, academic scholarships, Tech Alumni Association, athletics or other programs.

We encourage you to participate through payroll deduction or a one-time gift. If you are already giving, please consider increasing your gift in support to the “Working and Giving Together” campaign.
