ALFRED J. CRABAUGH AWARD

Jae Thomas
Bryant, Arkansas

Arkansas Tech University taught Jae Thomas the value of growing where one is planted.

“I used to think I needed to make it out of Arkansas, into a big, bustling city in order to truly be successful,” said Thomas. “ATU has proven to me countless times that we determine our success by what we make of our community. We have the power to be successful right where we are by seizing the opportunities in front of us. All it takes to feel fulfilled is to do our own personal best to reach our goals and make a difference in our community, no matter how large or small it may be.”

Thomas is graduating from Arkansas Tech with a Bachelor of Science degree in biology with the biomedical option as well as a Bachelor of Arts degree in Spanish. He has been active in ATU Student Activities Board throughout his time on campus, including service as president in 2024-25.

An ATU Dean’s List qualifier in each of his semesters, Thomas has held additional on-campus leadership responsibilities in Black Student Association, in the new student orientation program and on the student union and recreation center task force. His efforts as social media coordinator in the ATU Department of Campus Life have increased the visibility of on-campus activities.

Thomas was elected by his peers as ATU Homecoming king in 2023.

He plans on pursuing a career as a physician assistant.

“(ATU) has undoubtedly set me up for success,” said Thomas. “The roles I stepped into allowed me to refine leadership skills such as empathy, problem-solving, receiving criticism, selflessness and stress management, which are universal in any career path. I want to continue to surround myself with ATU-like people who are genuine, hospitable and ambitious.”

MARGARET YOUNG AWARD

Elli White
Malvern, Arkansas

Elli White failed to carry out her initial plans for college.

Arkansas Tech University is a better place because of that failure.

“I had no intention of making many friends, getting involved or pursuing anything beyond a bachelor’s degree,” said White when reflecting on her point of view as an entering freshman.

Everything changed when she accepted an invitation to attend an interest meeting about establishing an organization for first-generation college students at Arkansas Tech.

“I walked into that meeting thinking that, at best, I might dare to ask a question about financial aid,” said White. “I walked out of that meeting as the president of the newly-formed first-generation student organization.”

White helped grow the ATU first-generation student organization from five members to approximately 70. That leadership opportunity begat others, and before long White was serving on ATU Student Government Association. She became ATU SGA secretary of student development in spring 2023, vice president in 2023-24 and president in 2024-25.

Public Relations Student Society of America, the Arka Tech student newspaper, Emerging Leaders Society and Do Something also benefited from White’s efforts and leadership. She also found herself regularly supporting and advocating for other student organizations that represent a broad spectrum of the ATU student body.

White is graduating with a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism. She will continue her ATU education by pursuing a master’s degree in higher education and student affairs.

“ATU has revealed my passion for uplifting and empowering college students,” said White. “Some of my proudest achievements at ATU have not been my own, but rather the success of those that I have supported. I genuinely believe that ATU has transformed my life for the better, and I am committed to seeing ATU grow and providing other students with the same opportunities I have been fortunate to experience.”

JILL LESTAGE BROWN SERVICE LEADERSHIP AWARD

*Kacie Gibbins
Vian, Oklahoma*

Move-in day and Green and Gold Give Back day at Arkansas Tech University. High five Friday morning greetings for students at local elementary schools. Future Farmers of America. The Boys and Girls Clubs of the Arkansas River Valley. River Valley Food 4 Kids.

These are just a few of the causes and organizations that have benefited from Kacie Gibbins' volunteer service over the span of her four years as a student at Arkansas Tech University.

In all, she has given more than 160 hours of service to benefit the surrounding community while also excelling in the classroom and on the field as a member of the Arkansas Tech Golden Suns softball team.

"Arkansas Tech University has had a great impact on both my academic and personal growth, inspiring my goals and shaping me into a driven member of society," said Gibbins. "This award is an honor and a symbol of the hard work and dedication I have invested at Arkansas Tech as a student-athlete. It means that my commitment to my education, community, Golden Suns softball and the future of agriculture has been acknowledged, and it motivates me to continue pursuing my goals with passion and determination."

Gibbins has earned a place on the Dean's List in each of her semesters at Arkansas Tech, Great American Conference All-Academic team honors and the GAC Distinguished Scholar award.

She was inducted into Chi Alpha Sigma national athlete honor society in 2023.

HALL OF DISTINCTION 2025 HONOREES

Dr. Robert Charles Brown and Jill Lestage Brown Distinguished Service

Two people who were at the forefront of making Arkansas Tech University the modern, regional comprehensive university it is today will receive the institution's highest honor during spring commencement 2025.

Dr. Robert Charles Brown, 11th president of Arkansas Tech, and his wife, Jill Lestage Brown, are being inducted into the ATU Hall of Distinction under the Distinguished Service category.

Over his 21 years as president, Brown transformed Arkansas Tech from a small college into one of five universities in the state with more than 11,000 students, oversaw the addition of more than 50 new programs of study and led an investment of $260 million in new facilities, renovated facilities and campus infrastructure.

Enrollment at ATU topped 12,000 students during the fall semester following Brown's retirement from the presidency as part of 17 consecutive years of school record enrollments through fall 2015.

Among every degree that was earned at Arkansas Tech during its first 105 years, 61 percent were conferred during the Brown presidency.

Brown announced on Aug. 23, 2013, that the 2013-14 academic year would be his last as president. He retired from the active presidency on June 30, 2014, and has held the titles of president emeritus and distinguished professor of economics at Arkansas Tech since July 1, 2014.

"Arkansas Tech University is privileged to have the opportunity to honor Dr. Brown and Mrs. Brown with induction into the ATU Hall of Distinction," said Dr. Russell Jones, ATU president. "The positive outcomes of their efforts on behalf of Arkansas Tech are easy to see and continue to benefit our students. I look forward to a celebration of their achievements at spring commencement."

The Browns have been married since 1968. They have three adult children — Hugh, John and Martha — and five grandchildren.

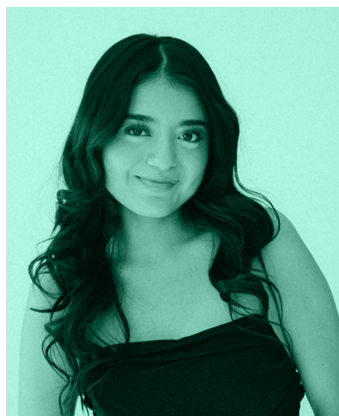

"I was fortunate enough and blessed enough to find a life partner who not only had the intelligence and the drive, but she also has a diplomacy and a smoothness that I am lacking," said Brown when asked about his wife at the time of his retirement in 2014. "It's been a great advantage to me, not only in the personal dimension, but quite frankly in the professional dimension. Jill had a great career of her own going as an elementary teacher, and she gave that up to help me. I am very grateful to her. She knew that I was going to need her help to get this job done."

Mrs. Brown's volunteer service to ATU is celebrated on an annual basis when the Jill Lestage Brown Service Leadership Award is presented to a senior student.

ACADEMIC HERALDRY

A time-honored tradition of great dignity is the wearing of academic apparel. The history of academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities. The apparel is a survival of the ecclesiastical garb of the late Middle Ages as well as earlier civilian fashions. The three characteristic elements of academic regalia are the gown, the hood, and the cap.

Gowns may have been necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. Hoods seem to have served to cover the shaven crowns of the monks until superseded by the skull cap. The custom of wearing the gown, hood, and cap was first regularly adopted in the thirteenth century at the University of Cambridge with the University of Oxford soon to follow.

In 1895, American universities and colleges decided to standardize their academic styles and an intercollegiate code for academic custom was developed. The standards in this original code were followed precisely until 1932 when a committee was appointed by the American Council on Education (ACE) to study possible revisions. The code approved by that committee remained intact until 1959 when the Committee on Academic Costumes and Ceremonies was appointed by the ACE. This committee is the official body today which governs the standards and regulations of academic costume and ceremony. The academic costume code contains criteria for each item of academic apparel. Only the costume of the chief marshal may be specially designed by the institution--all others must follow traditional guidelines.

The gown is usually of black material--serge, cotton poplin, or worsted for bachelors and masters, and rayon or silk for doctors. Bachelors' gowns have pointed sleeves; masters' have long, closed sleeves, lunate at the bottom, with slits at the elbow; the doctors' have wide round, open sleeves. Doctors' gowns are faced with panels of velvet down the front with three bars across each sleeve. The facings and crossbars may be black or of the color distinctive of the degree category and agreeing in color with the binding on the hood.

The hood, worn around the neck to hang down the back, is the principal emblem of the nature and source of the degree held. It is edged with velvet in the color of the degree, while its lining of silk bears the colors of the institution which granted the degree. No academic hood should ever have its border divided to represent more than a single degree. The binding of the hood should be in widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees, respectively. In some institutions it is customary for the hood to be dispensed with by those receiving bachelor's degrees.

The cap is the square mortarboard of black cotton poplin, rayon, or silk to match the gown or, for the doctor's degree only, velvet. The tassel may be black for all ranks and degrees or may be of gold thread for doctors and the color of the degree for bachelors and masters. There is no general rule for the position of the tassel on a mortarboard; however, numerous institutions have adopted the practice of wearing the tassels on the right front side before the degrees are conferred and to shift them to the left when the degrees are awarded.

For all academic purposes, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows:
